Just to give you my views on this proposed legislation,
One the one hand you are telling us its stop puppy farming, then on the other hand you are saying if you have an unsterilized dog you can apply for a breeders registration and become a goverment approved puppy farmer, because that is what will happen. as there are no puppy farms in west australia, as you said only two have been found in 2010 and delt with, I dont see the point in going to all the cost when it isnt necessary, un;less as I said at the meeting this is a rather lucrative anuall revenue raiser. Non of the public I have spoken to know anything about these proposed changes, which highlights the fact that this public consultation isnt really public at all there has been on information on tv or in the news papers, and I am suprised that we didnt have one of our local news reporters at the meeting in Bunbury, this indicates even the news papers dont know about it, If you are going to do a public consultation then do it in the proper manner, all you are proving at the moment is you are untrustworthy, manipulating, and dont deserve to hold office, wait untill the public find out what you are doing, you will not win another election when they find out how much this is going to cost them not only in money , but the loss of a family pet because the goverment is revenue raising and they cant afford to keep the pet anymore, your questionnaire, is totall rubbish, it gives no information, choose one of three answers, all aimed at guiding the public to give the answers the govt want.

The A.N.K.C. put thousands of dollars each year in to research for dog diseases, will the govt be doing the same thing with all this extra money they will be getting? I think not.

How many people will it take to police this legislation? I dont think the rangers will be able to cope with it on top of an already heavy work load, traffic,fire control ,firebreak inspections, chasing farm animals that have got out on the road, kennel inspections,and a plethora of other duties they have to perform, and now you want them to burst in to peoples houses waving a slip of paper and grab the dog, I can see a few nasty incidents going to happen.

Puppies in pet shops is not a good thing, infact I would go so far as to say it is cruel, the puppies have been taken from one bad situation, put in a pet shop where they get no rest with people tapping on the glass or poking fingers through the bars, lights on all day security lights on all night, and the pet shop owner just wants to sell them to the first person that comes along to make a profit,no back up help to the new owner, no checks to make sure the puppy is going to a good loving home, most pet shop puppies are impulse buys, and that is where the problems start,, before long little dog is out on the street, because the owner didnt realise how much effort a little dog takes, DONT PUT PUPPIES IN PET SHOPS BAN PUPPIES IN PET SHOPS ALTOGETHER ITS CRUEL

Yours in anticipation of a sensible out come,
